

Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Saturday 30 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Cold and windy. Rain sleet and snow gradually easing later.

Today:

Rain will turn to sleet or snow in some places, mainly north of London, and especially across the Chilterns and other higher ground. However, significant accumulations are unlikely. Cold, strong winds with coastal gales. Later many areas will become dry. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Tonight:

Remaining outbreaks of rain, sleet or snow will die away, and long clear periods will follow. Windy initially, with coastal gales, later the wind eases as a widespread frost develops. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Sunday:

Dry and largely sunny start, then increasing cloud, with outbreaks of rain arriving across southern areas late afternoon. Overnight rain spreads further, probably turning to light snow in places. Maximum temperature 4 deg C (39 deg F).

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:

Monday cloudy, cold, with outbreaks of rain or snow soon clearing. Tuesday milder, with showers or longer spells of rain. Wednesday mild, rather cloudy and mainly dry, perhaps some showers.
